

NEW NAME ANNOUNCED

CONCORDIA UNIVERSITY

As of yesterday afternoon the names "Sir George Williams University" and "Loyola College" ceased to exist as representative of either institution. Instead, the official name proposed for the combined body will be Concordia University.

In a written statement released to the press yesterday at 12:00 noon, the joint negotiating committee which has conducted all phases of the talks for more than a year, also announced the names of most of the prospective senior administrators of the new university.

The agreement will now be submitted to the respective Boards of Governors and to the provincial government for ratification.

The legal ramifications of the merger, however, are not expected to be cleared up before next September. Both components of the institution, therefore, will function as separate academic units for purposes of student enrollment, budget, and teaching contracts.

The name "Concordia University" was selected by the joint negotiating committee from the list of names submitted from within the two communities. It was chosen in order to highlight the spirit of harmony which, it is hoped, will prevail on both campuses and because the motto of the City of Montreal is "Concordia salus".

The names "Sir George Williams" and "Loyola" will be preserved, how-

Principal and a prominent member of the joint negotiating committee, but his resignation made the move impossible.

All these administrators were chosen by a search committee or Nominating Committee of the Joint Committee. No applications were called for or accepted for any of the posts but, after the administrative structure had been composed, the committee met to choose its nominees. All the posts which have been allocated so far have been to members of one of the two communities.

In many respects, however, according to Dr. O'Brien the university is "further ahead than you might think in its preparations for next year." The naming of the senior officers is a big step towards setting a firm policy and solidifying the administration.

ever, to differentiate between the two campuses as well as being retained in the titles of the Faculties of Loyola, Sir George Williams Arts, and Sir George Williams Science.

In addition to selecting the new name, the joint committee also recommended a number of chief administrative personnel to the two boards.

The first nominee was former Loyola Vice-Chairman of the Board of Trustees, Harry J. Hemens, an executive of Dupont of Canada Ltd., to the post of Chancellor.

The committee also suggested former Sir George principal, John W. O'Brien for the office of Rector and Vice-Chancellor, while Father Patrick Malone, former Loyola president, is expected to be hired as Vice-Rector and Principal of the Loyola Campus.

Other Sir George administrators to continue in their present posts under the new regime will be Academic Vice-Rector Jack Bordan, and Administration and Finance Vice-Rector John Smola. Deans Andrew Berczi, J. Clair Callaghan and Stanley G. French will take over university-wide responsibilities in the merged faculties of Commerce and Administration, Engineering, and Graduate Studies respectively.

Meanwhile the new Dean of the Loyola Faculty of Arts and Science is expected to be Prof. Russell Breen, Ian Campbell will continue as head of the Sir George Faculty of Arts and Dr. Roger Verschinkel will become acting dean of the Sir George Faculty of Science.

There will also be two Associate Vice-Rectors Academic. They will be Prof. James Whitelaw and another appointee to be named later. The latter position was expected to be filled by Dr. Joseph Burke, Loyola Academic Vice-

A New University A New Approach

Welcome to the new university — Concordia. This combination of Loyola College and Sir George Williams University will offer many interesting possibilities for the students themselves, and will include the various activities of evening students' associations in the coming year.

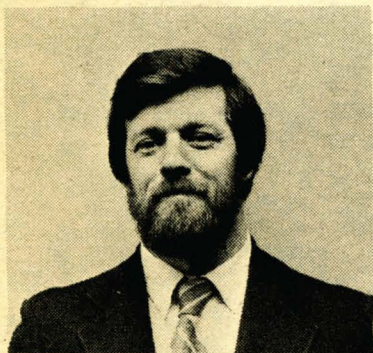

The new Evening Students' Association is an improved organization that can serve your needs on both campuses of Concordia University.

Our job is to protect your interests on campus, provide assistance, and attempt to solve institutional problems where possible. We will also provide you with adequate representation on all committees and governmental bodies. While to the average evening student these organizations' functions may not appear obvious, it is in the behind the scene meetings that your academic career and your future are decided; and that is why we will be there to look after your interests in the coming year.

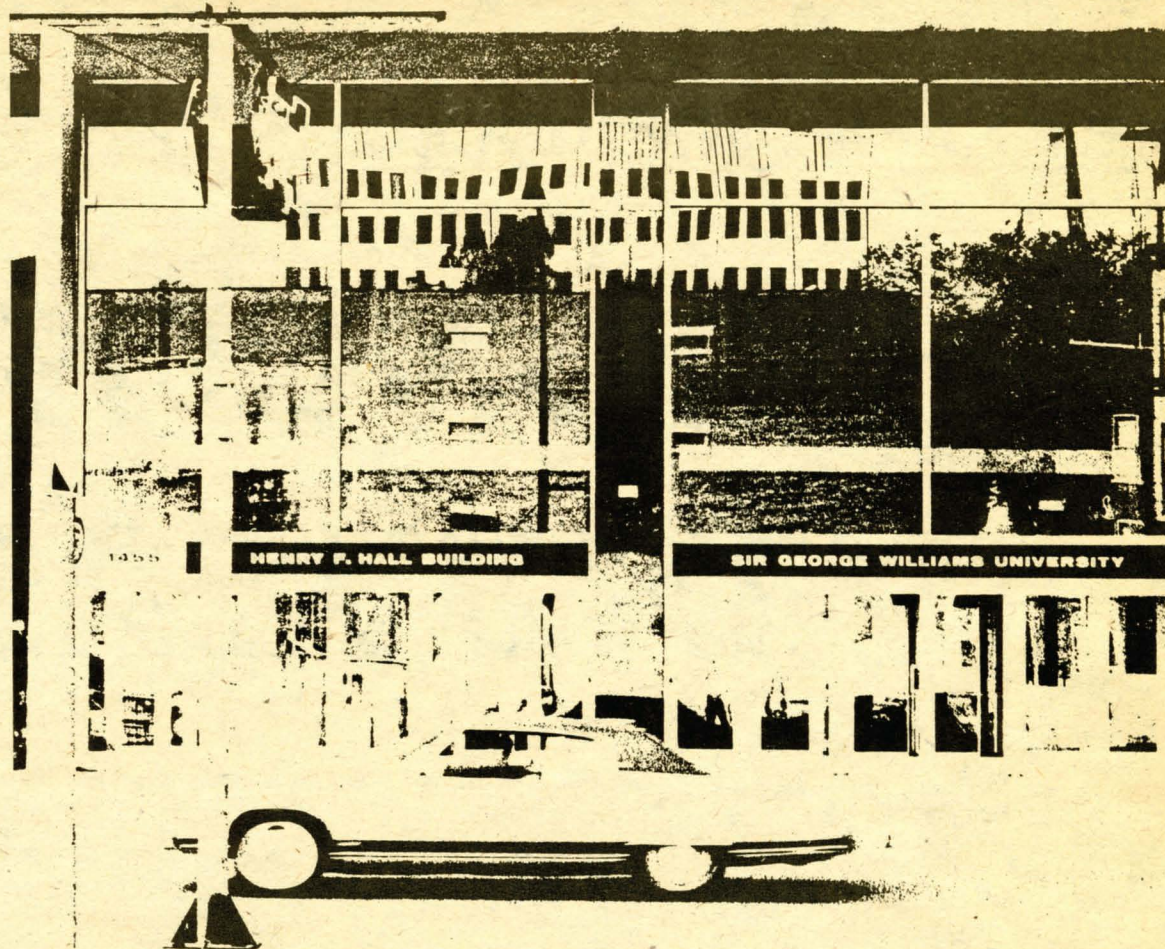

If you have found the word 'concord' in your dictionary, you will know that it means agreement and harmony, and it is in this spirit that the new university has been named Concordia. It is in this spirit of co-operation and harmony that we of the Evening Students' Association intend to proceed in our dealings with all the new people we will be meeting and in the various matters in which we will become involved. We are interested in co-operation with our counterpart associations and particularly with the Evening Students' Association of Loyola.

While it might be termed premature to theorize in any form of unification, it does seem reasonable to expect mature students with common goals and interests to come together for their mutual benefit. The Evening Students' Associations of the new institutions have already agreed to co-hosting of the national conference of part-time undergraduates to be held next May. They have also opened many areas of dialogue concerning increased co-operation in other fields of interest, and which will gradually become known as the year progresses. One thing is certain, and that is that the two associations and the bonds that link them are stronger than they have ever been before. Your participation in the Evening Students' Associations will give you the benefits of this strength.

Evening Student' Associations to Co-Sponsor National Conference

A national conference of part-time undergraduate students is slated to be held in 1974 at the Loyola campus of Concordia University.

Co-sponsors for the annual event will be the Loyola Evening Students' Association, and Sir George's Evening Students' Association.

Workshop seminars will include topics dealing with Course Evaluation, Counselling and Allied Services, Organization of Student Groups, Finances, Scholarships, and other items of importance to part-time students.

A similar conference was sponsored at the University of Toronto earlier this year, with attending delegates regarding the conference as productive and worthy of repetition.

One of the most important developments resulting from the previous meeting was the following strongly worded telegram, addressed to Minister of Finance, John Turner:

"WE, THE UNDERSIGNED WHO ATTENDED THE CANADIAN CONFERENCE ON PART-TIME STUDIES UNANIMOUSLY RECOMMEND THAT THE INCOME TAX ACT BE MODIFIED TO ALLOW A PERSON TO CLAIM AS DEDUCTIONS THE EXPENSES RELATED TO POST-SECON-DARY EDUCATION OF THE OTHER SPOUSE AS A REGISTERED STUDENT PART-TIME OR FULL-TIME IN ANY CANADIAN UNIVERSITY OR COLLEGE."

Another telegram was sent to each provincial minister of education.

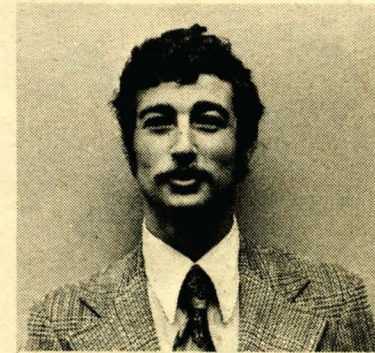

"THE UNDERSIGNED WHO ATTENDED THE CANADIAN CONFERENCE ON PART-TIME STUDIES, UNANIMOUSLY RECOMMEND THAT AN AMMENDMENT BE MADE TO THE CANADA STUDENT LOAN PLAN ACT TO ALLOW ACCESS FOR ALL STUDENTS REGISTERED IN DEGREE COURSES."

During the recent national conference of part-time students, it was interesting to note that Atkinson College of York University was dedicated to reviving the interest of part-time students.

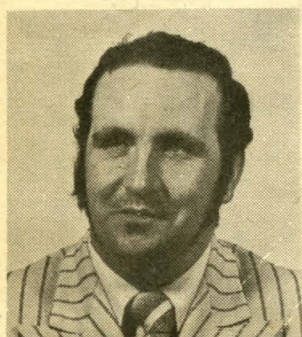

In view of the particular interests of the part-time student group, this could be an avenue for investigation by the Evening Students of Concordia.
